

Conditions of Use: Public Computers, Internet Access and Wi-Fi

Queanbeyan-Palerang Libraries provides free access to public computers and Wi-Fi for its members and guests. Patrons accessing the internet must comply with the following conditions:

1. Access computer equipment respectfully and do not cause damage to either software or hardware of the machine.
2. Abide by licencing agreements and copyright, intellectual property laws, and other applicable Federal, State and Local laws.
3. Ensure all materials accessed are appropriate to a public area. Access of inappropriate and offensive material is prohibited. This includes material depicting graphic violence, drug use, strong language, or sexual imagery.
4. Be considerate of other people in the Library when taking calls and use headphones when playing sound.
5. Supervise and be responsible for their child's access to the internet.

The Library does not take responsibility for:

1. Problems in accessing sites on the internet, saving documents or the accuracy of the information obtained.
2. The safety and security of any transactions carried out on the internet.

The Library respects users' rights to privacy and does not monitor the information or sites accessed by clients. However, the Library may be required to provide internet logs to police and law officers. Library computers clear all personal data and website browsing history at the end of each session.

Failure to comply with any of these conditions may result in the loss of privileges to use our facilities.
